Madison novel updated to be more useful to history students

A 1950 children's novel set in 1850 Madison has been revamped with pictures and newspaper clippings from history archives, a larger format and corrections.

JoAnne Spiller, the education director at the Jefferson County Historical Society's History Center, spent two years making "Lucky Year" more interesting for children, more useful for teachers and more accurate for anyone who might use it as a resource.

"She (the author) intended for this book to be a fiction," Spiller said, adding that even a fiction book should be accurate. For example, a steamboat race is described in the book, but Spiller could not find that one actually took place when the book said it did. The book said the Ohio River froze over in 1851, but Spiller was unable to find documentation that it did.

The new soft-bound book, a digital version for use in the classroom and a digital teacher's guide are free to third-grade teachers in Jefferson County. Other professionals can buy the book for $15 and get the guide free, and others can buy the book for $18 and also get the free guide. The books are available at the History Center, 615 West First St. (where the red caboose is). There will be a reception and book signing at the History Center from 6 to 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 10.

Spiller has used the book, written by the late Illinois author Dorothy Aldis, as part of her education program for the 20 years she has been at the History Center. The original was a standard-sized hardback book with no pictures.

She could tell that children were not totally engaged with it when she went to their classrooms. And she began suspecting that some of the "facts" were wrong. When the copyright on the book expired, Spiller got to work.

She did not rewrite the book, but she did retype it into her computer, then went through the printout page by page marking all the "facts" and then checking them. She went to the Indiana Historical Society and the Indiana State Library in Indianapolis; scoured microfilms; pored over files in the History Center's archives; got genealogy help from the History Center's archives staff; and called people who might have information.

She wrote a digital teacher's guide that has the corrections, information that she could not fit into the book, hands-on activities related to the book and the specific state academic standards that are met for third-graders in English, music, math, art, physical education, social studies and science.

Third grade is when Indiana pupils learn about local history. But Aldis' book has words that today's third-graders probably

Bartley to plead guilty in teen kidnapping case

By MARK CAMPBELL
Courier staff writer

A second of three defendants charged in the June 19 kidnapping and battery case of a 14-year-old Jefferson County girl has agreed to a plea agreement.

Hailey P. Bartley, 16, of Hanover, appeared before Jefferson Circuit Court Judge D.J. Mote Wednesday to withdraw a previous plea of not guilty to nine felony charges and plead guilty to one count of criminal confinement, a Level 3 felony.

Bartley originally faced one count of kidnapping, two counts of criminal confinement and one count of aiding to commit criminal confinement, all Level 3 felonies; battery resulting in serious bodily injury and intimidation, both Level 5 felonies; intimidation, strangulation and attempting to obstruct justice, all Level 6 felonies.

Bartley and Elani Hines, 16, of Madison, were charged with forcing a 14-year-old girl from a friend's residence on Robin Court on June 19, transporting her to a residence on Skyline Drive — both against the girl's will — and then physically assaulting her and threatening additional violence if she told anyone.

A third defendant who was charged as an accomplice, Jaylon Walker Wayne Pace, 19, of Madison, reached an agreement last month to plead guilty to one count of aiding, inducing or causing an offense (kidnapping), a Level 3 felony, at a pre-trial hearing in Jefferson Circuit Court. He is scheduled to be sentenced at 9 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 30.

According to court documents, under the plea agreement Bartley gave up her right to a trial and appeal and "agreed with the facts as established" in the case and "admitted those facts are true."

According to a report filed by the investigating officer, Jefferson County Sheriff's Deputy Charles Miller, included in the original affidavit, the 14-year-old victim showed signs of "significant swelling to her head and face" with the right side "heavily bruised and swelled." He also noted "bruising to the tops of her hands" and that her hair "appeared freshly trimmed" and she had "patches of hair missing and her hair was very unevenly cut." In addition, there was video evidence of some of the attack.

Mote took Bartley's plea deal under advisement while ordering the probation department to complete a pre-sentence investigation prior to a sentencing hearing at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 13.

By pleading guilty to the single charge, Bartley faces a sentence of from three to 12 years in prison and a fine of up to $10,000 plus court costs. However, she could receive a suspended sentence or probation in the case but the prosecutor's office has asked that if that does happen she enroll in a supervised probation program at her own cost.

Mote revoked Bartley's bail and ordered her held without bail pending sentencing.

Hines, the third defendant in the case, is charged with one count of kidnapping and three counts of criminal confinement, all Level 3 felonies; battery resulting in serious bodily injury, a Level 5 felony; and intimidation, obstruction of justice and attempted obstruction of justice, all Level 6 felonies.

Sutter prefers prosecuting marijuana charges case by case

By MARK CAMPBELL
Courier staff writer

Citing the need to focus more time on prosecuting violent offenders, the acting prosecutor in Indiana's most populous county announced this week that his office will no longer press criminal charges against adults arrested for possession of less than one ounce of marijuana.

While several states have legalized small amounts of marijuana or adopted a similar approach toward prosecution of pot offenses, marijuana remains illegal in the United States and Indiana in any amount, and Jefferson County Prosecutor David Sutter is not ready to follow the lead of Marian County Prosecutor Ryan Mears, despite also having a busy workload.

Sutter said possession of small amounts of marijuana make up very little of his workload as it is and he believes those cases should be handled individually rather than by blanket policy.

"While prosecutors have absolute discretion in making charging decisions, prosecutorial discretion is best exercised on a case-by-case basis," Sutter said Wednesday. "Marijuana remains illegal at the Federal level and in the State of Indiana. As the elected prosecutor, I took an oath to discharge my duties according to the laws of the State of Indiana."

Sutter noted possession of marijuana, less than 30 grams (essentially anything under one ounce) without a prior drug conviction is a Class B misdemeanor in Indiana punishable by up to 180 days in jail, but most cases never get that far. He said first-time offenders are usually offered a diversion program rather than jail time and heavy fines. The programs educate and inform offenders with the charges ultimately dropped upon completion of the program.

"Marijuana possession, dealing, and use often occurs in conjunction with more serious crimes. As such, it remains an important aspect of public safety to follow through on all leads according to the criminal laws set forth by the state. My office will continue to follow the law and exercise prosecutorial discretion in all cases that are presented to us by law enforcement."
Jefferson Co. Prosecutor
David Sutter

However, marijuana possession can be part of a bigger case involving other more serious crimes and those cases are handled differently with jail time and bigger fines, Sutter said.

"Through October 1, 2019, of the 967 total criminal cases filed by the Jefferson County Prosecutor's Office, only 41 (4.2%) are cases where possession of marijuana was the lead charge (meaning there were no other charges of a higher magnitude included)," Sutter wrote while responding to an inquiry into his approach to prosecuting marijuana offenses. "Of those 41 cases, 10 are pending; 16 have entered guilty pleas; six have been dismissed; and nine are currently under the terms of a pre-trial diversion agreement. If a defendant successfully completes the terms of a pre-trial diversion agreement, the criminal charge(s) will be dismissed. Of the 16 guilty pleas, none received additional jail time and instead received probation or time served."

Sutter noted that adult, first offense cases involving small amounts of marijuana most of the time carry no jail time and very little workload for the court system unless other crimes were committed.

"Simply put, marijuana is not contributing to jail overcrowding in Jefferson County. No one is in the Jefferson County Jail on cases where marijuana is the lead charge, and the defendant does not have any other pending cases," Sutter said. "Marijuana possession,

Trimble man facing multiple charges after attempting to evade ISP trooper

Courier staff report

A Trimble County man is facing a drug and weapon charges in connection with a police pursuit in Washington County, Indiana, late Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning.

Jeffrey Lee Wilhoite, 42, of Bedford, Kentucky, is charged with possession of methamphetamine, a Level 3 felony; resisting law enforcement, maintaining a common nuisance and possession of hypodermic needle, all Level 6 felonies; and possession of a handgun without License, a Class A misdemeanor.

The case began late Tuesday night when Indiana State Police Trooper Eric Powers attempted to stop a black Chevrolet Corvette for speeding while patrolling on S.R. 56 in eastern Washington County. When

Wilhoite

Turner

Powers turned his patrol car around to stop the car, the Corvette accelerated, then turned south onto Mount Road and fled at a high rate of speed. That portion of Mount Road is gravel, so the Corvette left a cloud of thick gravel dust in its wake, preventing Powers from safely pursuing.

After the dust settled, Powers continued down the road to make sure the car had not crashed but was unable to locate the vehicle. However, just after midnight and shortly after Powers had returned to S.R. 56, the Washington County Sheriff's Department dispatched that a suspicious vehicle had pulled into a nearby residence on Mount Road. The caller said it looked like the driver was trying to hide from someone and had parked by a barn.

After proceeding to the location, Powers located Jacquline L. Turner, 48, of Medora, seated in the vehicle. Turner exited the car and began to walk away but Powers ordered her to stop.

During an investigation, Powers learned that Turner was wanted out of Washington County and that a male subject had fled from the scene prior to his arrival. Powers then searched a nearby wood line and found Wilhoite lying on the ground inside the wood line. Powers also observed that Wilhoite had an ankle holster containing a pistol.

Both Turner and Wilhoite were detained without further incident, and the investigation continued with Deputies Brad Naugle and Allen Taylor arriving to assist. During that investigation, more than 10 grams of methamphetamine was located and Wilhoite and Turner were both arrested and transported to the Washington County Jail.

Turner was charged with possession of methamphetamine and maintaining a common nuisance, both Level 6 felonies; possession of marijuana, a Class B Misdemeanor; and possession of paraphernalia, a Class C Misdemeanor, in addition to an outstanding warrant for operating while intoxicated prior and possession of paraphernalia.

Churchill agrees to buy Turfway for $46M

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Churchill Downs has signed an agreement to buy Turfway Park for $46 million with plans to eventually demolish its grandstand and build a $150 million racing and gambling facility on the site.

Churchill's purchase of the Florence, Kentucky track from Jack Ohio LLC and Hard Rock International is contingent on approval by the Kentucky Horse Racing Commission when it meets on Tuesday. Turfway will keep the 2019-20 winter racing dates Churchill had sought for its "Latonia Racing & Gaming" project in northern Kentucky. That application with the KHRC will be withdrawn.

The track originally opened in 1959 as Latonia Race Course, located about 10 miles south of the original Latonia Race Track in Covington, Kentucky, which hosted Thoroughbred racing from 1883 until it was torn down in 1939.

Churchill Downs president Kevin Flanery said in a release that he is "thrilled" to welcome Turfway to the track's family and added, "Our team is poised to restore Turfway to its former glory." New Turfway Park will be a historical racing machine facility with up to 1,500 machines and a new dirt track to replace the 1-mile synthetic racing surface.

Kentucky House Speaker David Osborne called the purchase "historic" in a statement and said it's possibly the most impactful thing for year-round racing since whole-card simulcasting.

"It will create a more vibrant, year-round racing circuit and will lead to increased purses, which in turn stimulates the economy and creates jobs," Osborne said. "Turfway and northern Kentucky's incredibly important role in racing history will not only be maintained but also enhanced."

Our thoughts

Let's think differently on mayor's race

Our community is going through a difficult time on the heels of a great public and personal loss. Our hearts go out to the Welch family since theirs is the greatest loss. But, like all who grieve, this community must go on with the work of moving forward as we mourn the loss of Mayor Damon Welch.

There are 30 days between today and the Nov. 5 municipal elections. The Republican Party of Jefferson County will caucus Oct. 12 to select someone to fill the mayor's chair until next year when the winner of the Nov. 5 vote takes office.

The city staff has worked to fill the gap and conduct city business without its longtime leader and friend. Dan Dattilo, the president pro tem of the council, was sworn in immediately after the mayor's death, and is at work fulfilling his additional responsibilities.

The Republican Party, the party of which Mayor Welch was a member, will choose by caucus of the party's precinct chairs the person who will be mayor until next year when the winner of the November election takes office.

The Republican Party should be thoughtful in its choice.

The interim mayor's chair is a placeholder position that should not become an issue in the election itself. It is to be expected that the caucus will choose a Republican to finish the term, but we urge the caucus to avoid what might be a temptation to select Bob Courtney, the Republican candidate for mayor.

We're not saying this to indicate our choice of who should be the next mayor.

We're saying it because it's a move that feels too much like partisan politics at a time when citizens have felt a common bond as they mourned Mayor Welch. We encourage the party to recognize that sentiment and avoid even the appearance of capitalizing on the situation. By choosing someone other than their candidate, the party would give voters an even greater voice.

Both candidates should be allowed to continue to conduct campaigns that focus on the issues facing the city and explain their plans about how to deal with those issues.

Bob Courtney

Julie Berry

Courtney and Berry bring different backgrounds and experiences to the conversation, but they also bring a commonality of lifelong residency in this area and an understanding of its history.

While the candidates may see different ways to approach issues, let's give both the benefit of acknowledging that they each want to do what they think is in the best interests of the city, the area and its people.

Voters need to educate themselves on the multiple competing issues that face the city. While we all have concerns — be they city services, historic preservation, streets, economic development, jobs or our pocketbooks — we also need to understand that our priorities on those issues may be different from those of our neighbors.

We don't need yes-or-no questions such as "Are you going to pave my street." While those questions may be vitally important to us, that puts the candidate in the position of responding with a yes-or-no answer without the candidate knowing what circumstances might occur to cause that commitment to have to change. Perhaps the better questions to ask of our candidates is what their priorities and goals would be and how they anticipate trying to accomplish those goals.

Both candidates in this race have experience that will benefit them in office. But, neither has been mayor. As former mayor Al Huntington said last week, when things go well, a mayor is rewarded with admiration and accolades, and when things go poorly, held to blame.

Whichever candidate is elected will have to grow into the office of mayor, just as that candidate has had to grow into previous roles. We should not try to lock that person into commitments now that may be impossible later. But, we should make them provide a window into what their priorities would be.

And, we should expect and require of the mayor to explain why if those priorities change. When the next election rolls around, we can pass judgment.

As of Friday morning, there were 8,283 registered to vote in the mayor's race.

The turnout in city precincts in the May primary was just shy of 25 percent.

As voters, let us make every effort to at least double that primary vote percentage by end of day Nov. 5.

Remember, early voting begins Tuesday, Oct. 8.

Politicians have much to learn about climate

To the Editor:

Your article "Best Way to Fight Global Warming is Plant Trillion Trees" was very informative and interesting. Trying to eke out a living on 20 acres surrounded by polluting coal strip mines in Pike County, Indiana, has instilled conservation in me that will never leave.

When I was in the 7th grade a part of the boys curriculum was a course called "Conservation of our Natural Resources" which was probably due to the impact of the "Dust Bowl" of the 1930s. We studied, among other things, planting trees to save our natural resources. The Madison Courier article tells how a trillion trees will rid the world of the past 25 years of carbon pollution (main source of global warming) and cost very little. A trillion trees seems a large amount the Swiss scientists proposed for the world, but, small when compared to the size of the U.S. national debt. The article states planting trees is thousands of times the cheapest climate change solution and the most effective and quickest.

The Department of Agriculture has ineffectively tried to get farmers to plant "Classified Forests." Classified Forests and other programs are full of restrictions, fines or even jail sentences if you deviate or follow the programs guidelines. One very bad restriction is if you sell your farmland, the new owner must continue the programs' guidelines. As you might guess, this makes it very difficult to sell.

Standford University environmental scientist Chris Field, who wasn't part of the study, stated, "But the question of whether it is actually feasible to restore this much forest is much more difficult" seems thoughtless. The world forests are being destroyed at an alarming rate to accommodate expanding housing and industry, increasing farmland, forest fires, building roads, storms and numerous other ways. We haven't presently been able or willing to replenish trees nearly fast enough. One trillion trees can also help this world get away from many ill-advised substitutes such as plastics and other forever degrading products in our landfills, oceans, lakes, rivers, on roadsides, in our foods, etc.

The world would have the logs to build log homes cheaply for the multimillion worldwide poor families and for those who would love to have a log cabin. I am sure the 11-plus billions of people in this world can come up with uses for a trillion trees if bureaucracies will encourage the people and not get in their way with regulations, codes, excessive taxes.

Our politicians need to initiate sessions talks with other world leaders on climate change instead of dragging their feet. Trees plus solar, wind, hydro and other less polluting energy sources can solve our environmentally acute problems in a short time. Imagine far less flooding, violent storms, tornadoes and more ice buildup on the polar caps. I cannot imagine why it has been so long for humans to even start thinking about planting trees. My wife, Shelby, and I watch squirrels burying walnuts for future food and starting walnut trees. We have come to the conclusion animals are smarter than humans in many ways. Thanks for the article. We need more.

Sympathies to family, city at death of mayor

To the Editor:

My discovery of the death of Mayor Damon Welch is perhaps providential. I was requested, by a man who does not own a computer (probably the happiest man in Indiana) to search The Madison Courier website for some information he needed. It was on your front page where I learned of the unexpected passing of Mayor Welch. Some searching confirmed it was the Damon Welch who was in my American Defense Policy class in the AFROTC program at UK.

Here are some wonderful memories of Damon:

1. He was soft-spoken, yet firm in his belief in Jesus. Once, he invited me to attend his church in the Lexington area. It was at that church where an event happened that has forever validated God's calling upon my life. Later, in another church, I surrendered to the Gospel Ministry. Since 1981, I have been privileged to pastor four churches — two in Ohio and two here in Oklahoma.

2. As a student, Damon was always prepared for each class and would often seek to continue the discussion with me after the bell. We had plenty to talk about — the War in Vietnam, the literal explosion of conflicts that was then called Urban Warfare, and an in-depth analysis of the Cuban Missile Crisis. His grade scores always reflected a serious desire to better prepare him for commissioning in the USAF.

3. Damon had a personality that was genuine and comfortable. His smile and laughter were something no one could teach. When time permitted, we would discuss things of mutual interest in Southern Indiana. I had graduated from Paris Crossing High School in Jennings County.

To his wife Ginny, his family and to the many, many bereaved citizens of Madison, I extend my sympathies. I also salute his military service to our great nation. May the Grace of Jesus help all to trace the rainbow of His Love through your tears.

Don't punish owners of electric, hybrid cars

Editor's Note: This is a copy of a letter the writer recently wrote to Rep. Terry Goodin, the Sixth District representative in the Indiana House and asked that it be published as a Letter to the Editor.

To the Editor:

The writer of this letter finds it hard to believe there has occurred no hue and cry from owners of electric and hybrid cars over the new fee slapped on our gasoline-stingy vehicles at license-renewal time. What a shame!

We Americans did more than our share of hand-wringing about depleting the planet's resources and polluting its atmosphere while the Japanese took the bull by the horns and did something about it. Born in 1937 and more than conscious of the atrocities committed by that nation, still I admire their ingenuity and recognition of a problem to be solved, while we Americans seize on their creativity and stick it to our friends and neighbors with such gouging as this anti-creativity fee.

Of course owners of Priuses and (Thank Goodness!) Chevrolet Volts should pay the same use taxes as drivers of Cadillacs and Mercedes, but we do, every time we buy an auto necessity. We shouldn't be penalized by a punitive fee that singles us out arbitrarily.

Thank you for honoring our fallen comrade

To the People of Madison:

Please, accept our sincere gratitude for your attendance at the services for our fallen comrade, Jerry Corzine. Mr. Corzine was a Navy veteran who served in World War II and Korea. He had no remaining family members and would have had no one in attendance at his service except the members of the Honor Guard of Post 9 in Madison and members of various service organizations. Your presence honored his memory.

Our special thanks to Morgan & Nay Funeral Centre. At their own expense, they brought Mr. Corzine's remains here and provided the services. They are a true asset to this community.

We are grateful to know there still are people who care about our members of the military, past and present, who are serving our country. Madison is truly a wonderfully warm and caring place.

The Community Foundation of Madison and Jefferson County awarded more than $200,000 in grants to local nonprofit organizations serving Jefferson County at its annual grants reception Oct. 1.

The annual grant awards, which were given to 19 nonprofit organizations this year, were made possible by the Community Foundation's Flexible Community Funds and Field of Interest Endowment Funds. To be considered for the grants, agencies must submit an online application and, in the case of the finalists, be visited and interviewed by members of the Foundation's Grants Committee.

"Our committee is often asked for more than twice the amount that we have available to grant," Grants Committee Chair Ann Suchocki said. "It is an honor to serve with a committee that is committed to the process and have the challenging task of determining the best investment of grant dollars available from the Community Foundation."

A list of grants made by the Foundation is available online at www.cfmjc.org/grants.php

Smyrna Homemakers

The September meeting of the Jefferson County Extension Homemakers Smyrna Chapter was Sept. 18 at Resurrection Church at noon. A pitch-in meal was shared by 11 members and one guest before the meeting. President Glenda Schirmer opened the meeting with the Pledge of Allegiance. Roll call was answered with the name of members' first grade schoolteacher and what was remembered about first grade. The two lessons were "Buzz about Coffee" and "Brain Workout." Carol Bell demonstrated a balance exercise. In addition, three fall recipes were shared with the group. Secretary minutes were read from the newspaper for absent member Wanda Stewart and Jane Wilson gave the treasurer's report with information on the booth at Neavill's Grove gathering. Business included looking for new venues to expand homemaker programs, growing membership, and county council meeting directing the clubs to provide items for the first baby of the year. The meeting closed with a devotional reading. The next meeting will be at noon Oct. 16 at Resurrection Lutheran Church. The pitch-in will be a monthly occurrence with the hostesses bringing the entree. New members are being sought and are welcome to the meetings.

Bramwell/Cline reunion

The Bramwell/Cline family is hosting a reunion at Neavill's Grove Sunday, Oct. 6. A pitch-in lunch will begin at 12:30 p.m. All family and friends are invited.

Which food do you prefer?

Annie Lane

Dear Annie: For a long time now, my wife has had a habit of making our server choose what side dishes she is going to have. If there is a choice of wedding soup or creamy chicken and potato or broccoli or peas, my wife will often say to the server, "Surprise me." I think this puts pressure on the server. What if my wife does not like the choice that someone else made for her? — Puzzled in PA

Dear Puzzled in PA: At upscale restaurants, it's not uncommon to let the chef select your meal. At chain restaurants and more casual places, I can see how this question might put unfair pressure on employees. However, I'd be curious to hear from servers on this topic.

Dear Annie: I'm raising my two grandchildren, ages 6 and 5. My wife and I have court-ordered custody of them. Our daughter, their mother, is a heroin addict and, like most heroin addicts, seems completely helpless to the drug's powerful hold. I wrote the following poem that appeared in my home paper, The Bartlett Express, a few years ago. It was shared online thousands of times. It would mean a great deal to me if you were to print it. Maybe, just maybe, it will prevent a teenager from trying the deadly drug that first time. — Tennessee Papa

Hello, young person.

My name is Heroin.

It is so good to meet you for the first time. And I just know we are going to be the best of friends.

Go ahead: Try me. Don't pay any attention to what your parents and society have been telling you your whole life about me.

I promise you will LOVE me!

I will take you by the hand and take you to places of warmth and happiness and joy the likes of which you've never dreamed.

I guarantee you, we will become inseparable!

Because while I have you by the hand, I will also take you by the throat in a vice-like grip that will make it hard for you to breathe. Everything in your life that used to be so important will pale in comparison to the relationship you and I will have.

I will own you.

You will do whatever it takes to keep me around.

You will lose job after job. But I'm expensive, so you will steal from your friends and family. You will find creative ways to pay for me because what used to be enough of me will soon not be nearly enough.

Unless you're incredibly lucky, you'll spend time in jail because of me. But I'm worth it. I must be because you'll return to me at the first possible moment you're able.

Because now you're weak, and I'm incredibly strong.

Don't have kids because you'll ignore them. And neglect them. And eventually lose them.

Because I'm more important than even them.

Rehab? Forget about it.

Oh, you'll try. Several times. But only a precious few are able to cut ties with me permanently.

You'll discover that you hate me.

There's really only one way that I'll release my hold on you.

When years of addiction finally take their toll. When life with me is no longer worth living. When either disease or desperation reach that final inevitable conclusion.

When my grip finally chokes the very life out of you.

When your heart stops, I'll stop.

And then you'll be gone.

But I'll still be around. Looking. Always looking.

For that next victim.

Ah, there's one.

Hello, young person.

My name is Heroin.

Dear Tennessee Papa: I am happy to print your poem, though sorry that this message needs to be shared. For anyone struggling with addiction, call the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration's 24/7 national helpline at 1-800-662-4357.

OBITUARIES

Harold Dickason

Harold Wayne Dickason, 86, of Indianapolis and formerly of Vevay, Indiana, died Tuesday, Oct. 1, 2019, from injuries he sustained in an automobile accident in Indianapolis. Arrangements are pending at the Haskell & Morrison Funeral Home in Vevay.

Russell Sellers

An informal memorial and memory sharing for Russell Eugene "Gene" Sellers, 71, formerly of Madison, Indiana, will be at 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 6 at Harry's Stone Grill in Madison.

He died Nov. 26, 2016, in Tampa, Florida. He was born July 30, 1945, at King's Daughters' Hospital in Madison to James A. and Laura Burris Sellers. He graduated from Madison Consolidated High School in 1964 and enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps. He was stationed in Cuba and Iceland, serving until 1968 when he was honorably discharged after a pulmonary embolism that many years later led to the amputation of his leg.

He moved to Florida and spent most of his career as a plant manager for marine equipment manufacturer Gray Enterprises Inc. He loved fishing and the outdoors and normally had a Coca-Cola and a dog by his side. He was a skilled and detailed carpenter and enjoyed making things with his hands. He was an avid sports fan — following the Oakland Raiders, San Antonio Spurs and boxing, especially Muhammad Ali — and he enjoyed learning and had an uncanny memory for history and nature facts and told endless entertaining stories about his own life and was always quick with a joke or a song to brighten the day.

He is survived by daughters Kristen Sellers and Brittany Sellers, both of Florida, a cousin Kathryn Larimore, also of Florida, and many friends.

He was preceded in death by his mother in 2002; a brother, Jim Sellers in 2012; and an aunt, Flora Glore in 1999. His father died in 2017.

Friends and family — including his many classmates who will be in Madison this weekend for the Class of 1964's 55- year reunion — are welcome to attend an informal memorial and memory sharing, which will be led by his daughters.

In Memory Of
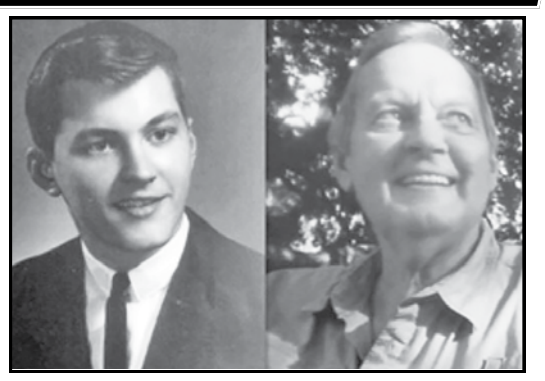
RUSSELL EUGENE "GENE" SELLERS
JULY 30, 1945 ~ NOVEMBER 23, 2016



Russell Eugene "Gene" Sellers, 71, of Madison, passed away on November 23, 2016 in Tampa, Florida.

Gene was born at King's Daughters' Hospital in Madison to Laura Burris and James A. Sellers on July 30th, 1945. After attending Madison Consolidated High School, Gene enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps and was stationed in Cuba and Iceland. He served until 1968, when he was honorably discharged following a pulmonary embolism, which eventually led to a leg amputation many years later.

After moving to Florida, he welcomed two daughters to whom he was an exceptionally loving, nurturing and supportive father. Gene spent most of his career working as a plant manager for Gray Enterprises, a leading manufacturer of marine vessel equipment. He loved fishing and spending time outdoors and was rarely caught without a Coca Cola in his hand and a dog by his side. He was also a skilled and detailed carpenter who enjoyed making things with his own hands. He was an avid sports fan, always cheering on the Oakland Raiders, the San Antonio Spurs and his boxing heroes- although, no one more so than Muhammed Ali. He enjoyed learning about the world and had an uncanny memory of history and nature facts, as well as endless entertaining stories from his own life. He was always surrounded by friends, both old and new, of all ages and backgrounds, who were drawn to his kind and patient nature, and his constant readiness with a joke or a song to brighten your day.

Gene is preceded in death by his mother, Laura Sellers in 2002, his father James Sellers in 2017, his brother, Jim Sellers in 2012, and his aunt, Flora Glore in 1999.

Gene is survived by his daughters- Kristen Sellers and Brittany Sellers, his cousin, Kathryn Larimore, all from Florida, and many loving friends. His memory lives on in each who knew him.

Friends and family of Gene are welcome to attend an informal memorial which will be held following the Madison Consolidated High School Class of 1964 Reunion activities on Sunday, October 6th, 2019 at 3:00 p.m. at Harry's Stone Grill in Madison, in a private room. This memorial is planned and led by his daughters, Kristen and Brittany.

never heard before, hampering their understanding of the story, so Spiller's teacher's guide includes a short list of words to learn for each chapter. Aldis also wrote about things like fences in yards to keep out pigs. "Some of these kids don't live downtown," Spiller said, so they have not seen the kind of fences people put up back then. In the archives she found two old pictures of fences in Madison to put in the book.

Spiller started using the new book and guide Sept. 19. So far she has used them at schools, including Lydia Middleton Elementary, Anderson Elementary, Pope John Elementary and Christian Academy of Madison. Her full program in a classroom takes 90 minutes.

The plot of the novel is the year leading up to a real event, the April 11, 1851, performance in Madison of Swedish opera star Jenny Lind. Whether the family the novel is about will be able to buy tickets depends on whether they have a good hog year. The story follows them on a hog drive from Columbus, Indiana, to Madison, which was a major pork center, and through the performance, which was inside a cleaned-up pork house.

Production costs for the book were paid by the Rogers Family Memorial Historical Research Fund.

Franciscan chasing cancer breakthrough

By RYAN TRARES
Daily Journal of Johnson County

The hidden weapon hides within a patient's own cells.

When someone is diagnosed with lymphoma or another blood cancer, chemotherapy is the best weapon to treat it. When it fails to rid the body of the cancer, or the cancer comes back, circumstances are bleak for patients.

But a group of doctors at Franciscan Health Indianapolis have found a potent weapon in genetically modified immune system cells used to treat some types of blood cancer.

"Having options in an otherwise very difficult-to-treat situation brings a lot of hope," said Dr. Luke Akard, a cancer specialist with the Indiana Blood & Marrow Transplantation program at Franciscan Health Cancer Center in Indianapolis. "Those patients were without a lot of other options."

The breakthrough treatment offers new hope for patients who otherwise would have few options in treating their lymphoma. The patient's own immune system is modified to recognize unique proteins on lymphoma cells and potently kill cancer, ridding the body of existing cancer cells and protecting against recurrence.

Though only currently useful as a treatment in certain cases of lymphoma, the therapy holds promise for other cancers.

"It's been tested with multiple cancers, and the question becomes can you do a similar thing with other kinds of cancers. We know there are some unique proteins on other kinds of cancers. Could we target breast cancer, melanoma, lung cancer?" Akard said. "So far, it hasn't been as successful, but it may just be a work in progress."

The technique is called CAR T-cell therapy, and has been approved by the Food and Drug Administration to treat diffuse large B-cell lymphomas. The cancer is a fast-growing disease that impacts the B-lymphocytes, a type of white blood cell that make antibodies to fight infections and are an important part of the lymphatic system.

Diffuse large B-cell lymphoma is the most common type of non-Hodgkin lymphoma in the U.S. and worldwide, according to the Lymphoma Research Foundation. More than 18,000 people are diagnosed with the disease each year.

"There's your standard chemotherapy that cures over half of people. In patients who relapse, some people will respond to another round of chemotherapy, and some people don't," Akard said.

Relapsed patients who do respond are then treated with a high-dose chemotherapy regimen and an autologous transplant — their own blood-forming stem cells are collected out of the body, then put back after the chemotherapy to replenish the patient's blood cells. But in others, the cancer holds on.

"We don't have a lot of options for them, other than trying one recipe after another. Ultimately, the disease wins," Akard said.

The CAR T-cell therapy was developed for that group of patients. Cancer cells have a distinct group of proteins that are unique to the cancer. Researchers searched for a way to use those proteins to target a treatment. An antibody was developed 20 years ago that attached to a cancer cell, targeting it for the immune system. But by itself, that drug stops working over time in many cases, Akard said.

"So the idea was, could you take advantage of a target on the surface to bring immune cells to them? That's what CAR T-cells are — trying to target cancer cells by bringing the immune cells to it to kill things it doesn't like," he said.

The therapy starts by isolating, collecting and analyzing a patient's T-cells used to fight disease and infection. Those cells are sent to a lab in California, which cultivates and grows those cells in controlled lab conditions. Using a technique known as a viral vector, a genetically engineered piece of DNA is implanted into the cells using a virus.

Within that DNA is an antibody that finds lymphoma, Akard said. "The new gene allows that T-cell to recognize and try to kill the target protein on the lymphoma," he said.

dealing, and use often occurs in conjunction with more serious crimes. As such, it remains an important aspect of public safety to follow through on all leads according to the criminal laws set forth by the state. My office will continue to follow the law and exercise prosecutorial discretion in all cases that are presented to us by law enforcement."

Mears, who became acting prosecutor last week after the resignation of Prosecutor Terry Curry, will be challenged for the full-time position today when a Democratic caucus in Marion County decides Curry's replacement between Mears and Tim Moriarty, who has said he also supports marijuana policy change but that more drug abuse and mental health treatment is also needed.

Mears said his decision only covers simple possession — an amount over one ounce is considered trafficking — and that about 81% of those cases are already being dismissed and that Marion County will not turn a blind eye to public consumption and cases involving other related offenses.

"We're going to continue to prosecute individuals who use marijuana during the course of an accident or if they're impaired for marijuana, those types of cases," Mears said. "And also public consumption. I don't want people to get the idea that if you walk down to the monument, people are free to light up in public. That's not what this is about. This is about making sure that we treat everybody fairly."

Mears also hopes state lawmakers will consider legislation to adopt his policy on marijuana charges statewide and address the issue at the enforcement level. As the law stands, police also have sworn an oath to uphold the law and cite offenders regardless of what prosecutors ultimately do regarding those charges.

Regatta announces pricing, new judges stand

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Courier Staff Writer
dcampbell@madisoncourier.com

The Madison Regatta announced pricing changes for the 2020 festival and race and unveiled plans for a new judges stand during a brief general membership meeting on Wednesday.

With Regatta president Matt True out of town on business, board member Kim Washer presided over the meeting which had only 10 members in attendance.

The primary news concerned a new pricing structure, that will eliminate "flash sales" and instead slowly increase pricing throughout the year.

Combo admission wristbands, which are good for both the race and Roostertail Music Festival, will be $30 from Jan. 1 through March 31, $40 from April 1 through June 26, and $50 from June 27 through race day. Racing only wristbands will be $30 all year long and there will be no "Festival Only" wristbands available.

Children 12 and under will still be free.

"We've increased the pricing somewhat but when you look at the rest of the circuit, we're still under what the rest sell," Washer said. "We feel like it's still a great deal."

The Regatta also announced that a new, two-deck judges stand, will be built in time for the 2020 race, replacing the current one-deck structure. The project is being designed by Building Analysis Services of Hanover. There are three concepts that BAS has given to the Regatta and the decision on which concept to go with will be made in conjunction with the Riverfront Development Committee.

NEW STAND: One of the three concepts put forth by Hanover-based Building Analysis Services on the new judges stand planned for the Ohio River front. The Madison Regatta hopes to have the structure in place by next July's race. (Submitted artwork)

In other reports, the Regatta announced that all bills have been paid from the 2019 event and all sponsor money has been accounted for. The organization will enter 2020 with $25,000 in the bank.

In other news:

• The Regatta announced that it is seeking chairpersons to head committees on parking, tarps, signage, wristband compliance and gates. Anyone interested should contact the Regatta through its website.

• A wait-list for camping for the 2020 event is already being formed. Additional campsites will be added for next year, but the organization suggests that those seeking to camp get on the list earlier by emailing madisonregattacamping@gmail.com or visit the Regatta website.

• The next general membership meeting will be held at The Boneyard Grill on Wednesday, Nov. 6 at 7 p.m.

Southwestern volleyball swept South Ripley in three sets to hand coach Chris Johnson his 300th career win in the process on Thursday at home.

The Rebels won 25-18, 25-10 and 25-15. After the match, Johnson was presented a plaque by athletic director Tom Scroggins.

"I thought we played well tonight against a conference foe that we really needed to beat. As a team we committed very few errors so it was nice to see us play aggressively but also limit our unforced errors," Johnson said. "We had a perfect serve reception night with no errors there and we went 72-for-76 serving as a team. I think Kylie Eccles did a great job leading our offense and serving game. Abby Fulton and Ashleigh Ream were very strong defensively. And Meaghan Kramer ran our offense efficiently tonight and did an excellent job of getting the ball to our hitters."

Eccles had eight kills on 18-for-19 hitting and seven aces on 20-for-21 serving. Kramer had five kills on 9-for-9 attacking and two aces on 10-for-11 serving along with a perfect setting night with 20 assists. Elle Ford had six kills on 12-for-14 hitting and one ace on 12-for-12 serving while Autumn Harmon had seven kills and a block.

Southwestern, now 16-12 overall and 4-1 in the Ohio River Valley Conference, hosts Austin on Monday, Switzerland County on Tuesday and Henryville on Thursday. The Rebels can clinch a share of the conference championship with a win over Switzerland.

FORTY YEARS WITHOUT A WORLD TITLE

We are looking at Edgar Kaplan and Norman Kay, who get my vote as the best pair never to win a world title, despite 40 years of trying. They finished second to the Italian Blue Team in both the 1967 Bermuda Bowl and the 1968 World Team Olympiad.

Kay lived in Narberth, Pa. (a suburb of Philadelphia). He worked for Merrill Lynch, retiring as a vice president. He and his wife, Judy, ran a sports memorabilia business and owned a stable of standardbreds (trotters and pacers). Kay was one of the true gentlemen of the game -- everybody really liked him. He died in 2002, having won 27 national championships.

This deal occurred during the 1986 Vanderbilt, which Kay and Kaplan won with teammates Bill Root and Richard Pavlicek.

Kaplan (North) opened with a weak no-trump, showing 12-14 points. Since they did not use transfers, Kay forced to game with three spades.

West led the diamond two. After winning with dummy's king, Kay called for the spade king, which East had to duck to defeat the contract. That was very tough; instead, East won with his ace and led back a diamond.

Kay didn't give them a second chance. He won with his ace, ruffed his last diamond with dummy's spade queen and led a heart to his nine, keeping East off play.

Maybe this avoidance play would force out the heart queen; or perhaps the hearts would be 3-3; or, if all else failed, East might have the club ace.

As you can see, the second of these possibilities worked out. Kay's 10 tricks were four spades, three hearts, two diamonds and a diamond ruff in the dummy.

toppers just five minutes into the match off an assist by Eric Liu and Milan answered four minutes later.

Jack Grote converted a penalty kick early in the second half to put Shawe back on top only to see the Indians once again tie the score. With two minutes to go, Gage Dermon found Henry Grote for a header which but the Hilltoppers back ahead and clinch the win.

"It was nice to get back on track. We have played a number of close games over the last couple weeks but weren't able to secure a win," Willoughby said. "These guys have been playing some better soccer over the last few weeks, but it wasn't translating to wins. Hopefully this win is one that will get the players to realize that the adjustments they have been working on have made a difference."

Milan held a 15-11 advantage in shots but Shawe's Hunter Kennett stopped 13 of them to secure the win.

Jack Grote broke a scoreless tie with 29 minutes to play in Thursday's game against Switzerland and Henry Grote added a second goal a few minutes later on an assist by Liu.

Switzerland scored with 13 minutes to play but the Hilltoppers held on for the win.

Shawe was again out-shot on the night, this time 21-20, but Kennett stopped 20 attempts to secure the win.

Shawe (5-8-1, 5-6-1 Ohio River Valley) and Switzerland County (3-9-2, 1-9-2 ORVC) will square off again on Monday in the opening round of the Class A Sectional at Jac-Cen-Del. Game time is 6 p.m.

Lady Rebels lose 1-0

Southwestern girls soccer closed out the regular season with a 1-0 loss at home to South Ripley on Thursday.

Rebel goalie Jackie Courter recorded 10 saves to keep her team in the game but Southwestern was unable to get the goal it needed to stave off defeat.

"Our season is not what we had hoped statistically but we have enjoyed each other and see lots of potential," Southwestern coach Nancy Totten said.

Southwestern, now 4-9-2 overall and 1-6-1 ORVC, faces Class A No. 7 Providence in the opener of the Class A Sectional at Providence on Tuesday.

Cubs lose at Floyd

Madison boys soccer closed out the regular season with a 9-1 loss at Floyd Central on Thursday.

The Cubs held off the Highlanders until midway through the first half when Floyd broke through on a goal by Chaz Hubbs in the 18th minute.

The Highlanders added three more goals in the first half and blew open the game in the second half.

Madison ends the regular season with an 8-6-2 overall record and 1-4-2 in the Hoosier Hills Conference. The Cubs open the Class 2A Sectional at home on Tuesday against Salem.

Rebs fall at No. 9 JCD

Southwestern boys soccer closed out the regular season with a 9-1 loss at Class A No. 9 Jac-Cen-Del on Thursday.

Jac-Cen-Del scored four goals before Southwestern broke up the shutout. The Eagles then added five more for the final margin.

Jacob Jines scored three goals for the Eagles and Patrick Wagner had two.

Southwestern closed out the regular season with a 1-12-2 overall record and 0-10-2 ORVC. The Rebels will face the winner between Shawe and Switzerland County — both conference rivals — in the semifinals of the IHSAA Class A Sectional at Jac-Cen-Del on Wednesday.
